Co-Operative Action proposes a new framework for the study of how human beings create action and shared knowledge in concert with others by re-using transformation resources inherited from earlier actors: we inhabit each other's actions. Footnotes: 1 The terms “victim” and “survivor” are often used interchangeably; however, in this article, the former refers to persons who have endured through the event, but remain absorbed and constricted by the trauma, the latter, those who have learned through active post-event coping and associated growth. The more fully we can understand the forces constructing and coursing through a human life, the more powerful our coaching can be.
